New grocery store to occupy Victoria Square Mall

Victoria Square Mall is being refurbished in preparation for the arrival of a new downtown grocery store.

Spokesperson Bert Messier said building owners have engaged in a two-year search for new tenants for the vacant space in the mall.

"We could have leased the vacant space many times on a short term basis, and we did, initially, but this proved too costly," Messier said in a press release last Friday. "With the assistance of Evan Parliament at the town office we started a process to identify tenants that we should try and obtain for the main floor."

Prospective tenants included an optometrist, a children's clothing store, and following the closure of the former downtown I.G.A. store, a grocery store.

Gerry Knebel who hails from Red Deer, is currently wrapping up a host of details in anticipation of a 1996 opening for the new grocery store. Knebel, a Red Deer merchant with 25 years experience in the grocery business, including a position as general manager for Food City Superstore in Red Deer, 15 years as a Safeway store manager and one as a district manager, said the new outlet would be a "full service grocery store". He added that he hoped the new Didsbury store would be open prior to Christmas but depending on how renovations proceed, the opening could be moved up to January, 1997.

Knebel said a decision on the store name had been narrowed down to two possibilities, but a name was not announced by press time.

HAVING A BLAST IN THE SNOW

Mayor Ray Lea fired the starting pistol to mark the official beginning of the 1996 edition of the Terry Fox Run. Given the fact that just seven hardy souls actually ran the course under a steady downfall of wet snow, co-organizer Brenda Hemming reported that a total of $2,411 was raised at the event. "We're really pleased," she said. "In 1994 we had 47 runners, but we raised more money this year, in this weather. In addition to the seven active participants, an additional 19 phoned or brought in registrations and pledge sheets with a promise to tackle the course after the streets shed their snowy blankets."

Brassard declines to run for another term in office

By Elaine Wilson

An announcement issued from the local MLA's office over the weekend advised that the name Roy Brassard will not be on ballots when the next provincial election is called.

The adjustment inherent in stepping out of the glare of a public life and becoming attuned to the less hectic pace of private citizenship is the final adjustment the local provincial representative will face in a politically charged 11-year slate in office.

"The biggest change I've seen is the level of expectation from the people of Alberta," Brassard said. "When I first got into politics, oil was selling at $40 a barrel and everyone expected it to go to $60. It's safe to say that in the province we had more money than we knew what to do with. People's expectations were so high. But we kind of bought ourselves into some difficulty, certainly in the area of health and other areas. I think the expectation level was not realistic at all. I've seen that expectation level change over the years to the point where now reality has set in."

Brassard said feedback indicated a level of acceptance relating to provincial funding cut-backs.

"Now people are looking at health care...and saying 'Yes, we recognize we need some changes in this area, and in our social service programs. Some of the changes in education were definitely necessary. Now the challenge is going to be to go back and re-evaluate the change that has taken place, and make absolutely certain that it is the best possible plan that we have to serve the people of Alberta.'"

Asked what advice he would offer his successor, Brassard responded: "To remember that this job is solely about representing people and their concerns."

Brassard said in order to represent his constituents effectively, it helped when kept apprised of issues emanating from other regions.

"They have to understand what's happening elsewhere," Brassard said. "Because a lot of what goes on in Olds-Didsbury constituency is impacted by what's happening in Calgary and other places. If you're sick in Didsbury...a lot of our residents end up in Calgary. It's important to know what's going on in the hospital system in Calgary or Red Deer. It's important that we let the people know what's happening elsewhere."

Brassard noted the new MLA can expect some long hours and some trying moments.

"It's a very demanding job. You can spend as much time with it as you want."

Keeping a sense of perspective is something Brassard found invaluable in maintaining balance between public and private life.

"I think it's imperative that you have your priorities right. As much as I would like to say that your family always comes first - in this job

- that doesn't work because of the demands of the job. But it is important that you never lose sight of those values, and that you maintain your sense of values, because I think in order to represent people I have to be secure in my family and family environment. Just as I've had the support of my constituents and community, I've had the support of my family in all of this."

Brassard said his wife Sheila, took on a job following her husband's election.

"When people elected me, they elected my wife too," he said. "Now her role is totally different than mine but I couldn't begin to serve the people without my wife's support."

Brassard plans to stay in Didsbury, and beyond putting his energy and focus toward completing his current term "diligently and responsibly", he has not made firm plans to pursue another career.

"I just bought a new set of golf clubs," he said with a smile. He also hopes to catch up on reading he hasn't had time for in several years. He said he envisions at least a six-month term before the Premier calls a provincial election.

What will he miss most about the life of a member of the Alberta Legislature?

"This is a very exciting time to be in politics, and I will miss the involvement," he concluded, "That and working with people."

Grade 6 achievement test results

Provincial assessment standards evaluations begin with annual June achievement tests. Variances from school to school and year to year may be generated by a number of causes.

"Basically we feel we've done well," said Westglen principal Phil Corning.

Corning discussed the test score results with parents at last Thursday's Parent Advisory Committee meeting.

"The Grade six staff will be sitting down and reviewing the results, and any parents with concerns or questions are welcome to come in and discuss them with us."

us."

In a release to parents dated September 12, Corning noted: "Our students have scored above the provincial assessment standards in almost all areas in math, science, social studies and language arts (reading and writing). Although the results show a decrease in the percentage of students achieving the Standard of Excellence from 1994-95, they also show a decrease in the percentage of students below the acceptable standard."

There has been concern from schools around the province that exempting students from taking the exam alters the averages.

Corning said at the parent council meeting that "most of our kids wrote", and added in the hand-out: "Our participants rate is much higher than the provincial average. Very few students have been exempted compared to other schools around the province. This tends to lower school marks, by including all the students, even those who have difficulty in the subject area. Even with this, Westglen students have done well."

Results of achievement tests from Ross Ford Elementary and Didsbury High School will be printed in an up-coming issue of the Review.

pendently owned and operated, Knebel said the wholesaler will be the same one utilized by Safeway stores.

The store will be located in the east end of the mall in order to facilitate access to parking for grocery store patrons. Video View will be relocating to the west end of the mall, and will be increasing their square footage to 3,500 square feet. The grocery store will command 6,500 square feet and the parking lot adjacent to the Didsbury Inn will be paved as well.

"We feel that Didsbury needs a second grocery store downtown to service many seniors who wish to walk and get their groceries and we will continue to try and obtain new tenants that are required in this growing community," Messier said.

Other improvements planned for the mall include signage for all tenants, as well as new carpeting and paint on the second floor common areas.

Didsbury RCMP are requesting public assistance in locating the suspect(s) responsible for the theft of seismic equipment from Veritas Geophysical Ltd. near Carstairs on the evening of August 31, 1996. The location was approximately one km west of Carstairs on the Carstairs Blind Line. The stolen items are two ITO boxes (white in color - metal - smaller than a car battery), two solar batteries white, and one orange Heli-Bag (plastic). All items were marked with the company name and are valued at over $30,000.

Anyone with information on this or any other crime is asked to call CrimeStoppers toll-free at 1-800-661-TIPS (8477). Callers remain anonymous and don't testify in court. A cash reward of up to $2,000 is offered for information leading to the arrest of those responsible. This equipment is only useful to those persons working in the seismic field.

Van Eaton identifies priorities

The formation of Alberta Education's six regional consortia was launched earlier this year. The goal was to seek out and implement a more efficient manner in which to deliver in-house service training and professional development for the whole educational community.

In October and November of 1995, representatives from educational organizations and school jurisdictions met. Out of these meetings came task forces, and ultimately, management teams.

The executive directors (Shirley Van Eaton is executive director for the Central Alberta division) will be in charge of carrying out the goals, objectives and plans identified as priorities by each region.

Former Mountain View School Superintendent, Shirley Van Eaton, was appointed the first-ever Executive Director of the newly formed Central Alberta Regional Consortium this spring.

"In plain language, we will be developing some new workshops for our partner audiences," Van Eaton explained. "But if we can find resources that are already in place, we would try to engage them rather than re-invent the wheel to address the need."

"If we know that more than one of our partners is working on the same area of skill development, i.e.: working on the team building aspect of site-based decision making, we would work to coordinate efforts and avoid repetition or duplication."

Van Eaton said another aspect of the work the Consortium will address would involve organizing and streamlining services.

"We would work to coordinate efforts and avoid repetition or duplication... building a resource bank of workshops, speakers, etc., and helping our clients find the help they seek. In practical terms, our work will link parent councils, principals and teachers, trustees, superintendents and secretary-treasurers to support in-service opportunities for those of us who influence student learning."

What will it cost and what will be received in return?

"By joining forces and pooling resources, we believe costs can be kept lower for all," Van Eaton said.

"The funding is provided from Alberta Education; $150,000 is provided to operate the office and the program fund is based on the $2 per student allotted for each jurisdiction who becomes a consortium member."

The Consortium will act as sort of a "clearing house" of speakers, workshops and the like.

"Some workshops, courses [and] training sessions will be offered centrally and others will need to be repeated in two or three locations to save the participants from having to travel great distances," Van Eaton explained.

"The consortium project has been funded until August, 1998."

Waste Authority seeks input from the public

The Mountain View Regional Solid Waste Authority is actively seeking public input on what local residents feel are the most cost-effective, environmentally responsible and socially acceptable waste management strategies for the district.

"It can be a letter, a telephone call, anything the public feels comfortable with," said Authority chair Jack Peck.

Members of the waste authority welcome comments and suggestions, which Peck said could also be relayed directly to Authority members. Representatives on the MVRWA are: Jack Peck, Nita Barthelow, Barry Boyle, Arvin Bull, Bill Dallas, Penny Fox, Don Fritz, Joe Henze, Donna Kelly, Bob Wilson, Don Watt and Ray Lea.

In an effort to facilitate improved communications and as an avenue to gain further input, a Citizens' Advisory Committee was formed.

"I call them the public's watchdog," Peck said. "They're totally non-political. They look at things from a different perspective than the [MVRWA] does. The board are all elected people and they're looking more at the dollars and that sort of thing - we follow the government rules. When you blend the two together I think you get the best results."

The CAC held their first monthly meeting in the spring of 1996 and are currently in the process of gaining background knowledge about waste management in the area.

CAC chair, Les Sorenson, said, "The Authority has asked us for our input and to become well informed so that the community has both formal and informal channels through which residents can gain information and voice their comments and concerns."

The CAC plans to maintain an advisory role by identifying potential areas of concern, soliciting feedback from citizens and making recommendations to the Authority.

Both the MVRWA and the CAC invite interested citizens to bring forward any questions or concerns they have about area waste management.

Members of the CAC are: Les Sorenson, Olds; Shane Coates, East Carstairs; David Fate, Division 6; Jerril Gillespie, Carstairs; Frank Grief, Division 5; Peter Harty, Division 1; Ernie Isrealson, Division 4; and William Purves-Smith, Division 3. The CAC is currently seeking members from Sundre, Didsbury, Cremona and Division 2.

College student faces multiple charges

On September 22, 1996 at approximately 12:15 a.m., the Olds RCMP responded to the Olds College on a complaint of an assault and disturbance.

As a result of further investigation, police arrested Johnathan Daniel Smith, 31, and laid the following charges against Smith who was a college student at the time:

1. Sexual Assault, Sec. 271 Criminal Code;
2. Assault Causing Bodily

Harm, Sec. 267(1)(b) Criminal Code;

3. Common Assault (2 counts), Sec. 266 Criminal Code;

4. Assault Peace Officer with Weapon, Sec. 267(1)(a) Criminal Code;

5. Assault Peace Officer, Sec. 270(1)(a) Criminal Code;

6. Assault with a Weapon, Sec. 267(1)(a) Criminal Code;

7. Theft Under $5,000, Sec. 334(b) Criminal Code and

8. Mischief Under $5,000, Sec.

430(4) Criminal Code.

During this entire incident, Smith allegedly assaulted two Olds College staff members, sexually assaulted one female Olds College student, assaulted one RCMP officer, stole property and damaged a police vehicle.

Smith has been remanded in custody to appear in Didsbury Provincial Court on Wednesday, September 25, 1996 at 10 a.m. for first appearance.

'Weather' or not you're ready, here comes the snow

Elaine

Last year the first snowfall of the year held off until the day after the Terry Fox run.

This year, the weatherman decided to hit us with both barrels prior to the event, blanketing the entire town with a creamy mush that made footing treacherous at best.

It is said that a changing her mind is a woman's prerogative, and we've had some wild swings in the weather lately, so perhaps I should restate the second sentence and say "The weatherwoman decided to hit us with both barrels.

Regardless, I doff my hat (and my earmuffs and umbrella) to the hardy souls who turned out on foot and on two-wheelers to take a run at the 10 k course.

Members of the fire department turned out as well; an annual tradition for them. They zipped around the course at regular intervals making sure no one got hung up (or buried) in a snowbank along the way.

Last week at this time I was gloating that in 1995 farmers were contending with a solid week of heavy rain while this year we were enjoying one of the hottest Indian summers in memory.

Monday morning I awoke, along with everyone else, to the sound of raindrops falling in a steady stream.

Everyone makes jokes about Alberta weather; how if you don't like it, you merely have to stick around for a few minutes and it will change - but this is ridiculous.

There are still crops and gardens to bring in. There are still toys in the kids' sandbox.

There are still lawns that everyone meant to mow but never quite got around to it. I think if a vote were taken the resounding choice would be "more sun, please."

Sure, it gives farmers a chance to do a little maintenance work on their equipment and have a rest from the around-the-clock field duties, and who really gets a kick out of mowing their lawn anyway?

But while I'll grant you we had a lot more sunshine this year than last, can you ever really get enough?

Each birthday brings you closer to facing your own mortality and each snowfall reminds you that, hey, we live in Alberta, not Arizona, and that's a good thing.

We've got some of the most beautiful mountain ranges only a few miles from our back doors and we can hike there in the summer and ski there in the winter. We've got lakes that provide great summer boating and swimming. Ice fishing is the winter bonus there.

We, as they say, make the most of what we've got, and most of the time, we've got a pretty good arrangement as arrangements go.

Local hockey teams are gearing up for the winter season. Skiers, sno-boarders and everyone with a team of Husky sled dogs have a completely different perspective on the arrival of the year's first snow fall, and that's also a good thing.

If we all agreed on anything, even the weather, what in the world would we talk about?

Common Ground

Scenario 1

Just headed downtown to run a few errands, pick-up some groceries, and pay some bills. It is a short trip, so it is hardly worth strapping the baby in. Who wants the hassle of doing and undoing straps for what seems like a trip around the block. Besides, nothing will go wrong, right?

Scenario 2

You are off on a holiday trip in the car to visit family and friends. You may have your seat belt on, but it isn't the same for the two year old. There is a car seat to strap them in, but the toddler always gets restless and cranky.

It is something about the "terrible twos" that makes them want to roam around.

Scenario 3

With a new addition to the family, one of your first purchases was an infant car seat. Not long after that it was time to buy a toddler car seat. These purchases put a dent in your pocketbook, but it was well worth it. Actually, installing the car seat was more of a problem than anything. The directions are never clear, no matter what language they are in and it is anybody's guess where the tether bolt is best anchored. It was an exercise in frustration, but eventually, you got the car seat installed. But is it installed properly?

Each of these scenarios occur on a regular basis and may seem relatively harmless. After all, the chances of being in a motor vehicle collision seem slim.

While you may feel safe, and believe your child is well protected, the statistics tell a different story. Every year in Alberta, approximately 26 children are killed and 2,000 are injured in motor vehicle collisions. And just because your child is strapped into a car seat doesn't mean they are safe. National and provincial studies have shown that 70 to 80 per cent of car seats are being improperly used. If a car seat is being improperly used, it is equivalent to not strapping in your child at all. Unrestrained or improperly restrained children are equally at risk of being killed or injured in a motor vehicle collision.

Locally, statistics indicate car seat use is a problem. During a two hour observational study in Hanna this summer, 16 per cent of the children under the age of five were not restrained in a car seat, or restrained by a seat belt. In the same study, out of the nine car seats that were inspected, only one was being properly used with the child safely strapped in.

Although this study was limited to the Town of Hanna, provincial data suggests that car seat use is a problem in other Region 5 communities.

Considering the high number of car seats being improperly used and what is at stake every time you travel on the road, it is definitely worthwhile to have your car seat checked. Booking an appointment with your local Health Unit for a free safety inspection is the best way to make sure your child is properly belted in.

"Keep them safe" - car seat questions

Goodale's nightmare

By Kevin Avram, Chairman, The Prairie Centre

The Canadian Wheat Board seemingly won its fight with Andy McMechan last week. The court threw the book at him for selling grain without a Wheat Board license. But in the messy legal resolution, the Board may have sown the seeds of its own destruction, seriously damaging Ralph Goodale's political career in the process.

McMechan is the farmer who's been cooling his heels in a Brandon, Manitoba jail. He's now become a type of martyr for the many thousands of farmers who want access to the marketplace. At the same time, thousands of Canadians who have no connection whatever to the grain industry, have been stunned to learn the Canadian government is jailing farmers for selling their own grain.

In McMechan's case, he had about 10,000 bushels of a variety of barley for which the CWB claimed it had no market. It's an exotic sort called waxy semi-hullless barley. He could have sold it to the Board for cattle feed for less than $3 per bushel, but being an enterprising sort, he found a buyer in the U.S. who was willing to pay roughly double that amount. He sold it for the higher price. For this, in a country that routinely releases murderers and rapists with a slap on the wrist to prey on the community, he's been sharing a cell with some pretty rough customers.

Goodale has bungled it from the start. Over a year ago he hand-picked a committee of experts to study government grain marketing, a contentious issue which was clearly festering out of control. By most accounts, it was a panel that was sympathetic to government marketing. And the panel was chaired by a well-respected Liberal lawyer. This was not a bunch of raving free marketers.

The committee spent over a million dollars consulting all parties extensively to produce a set of recommendations which panel members unanimously endorsed. Given their diverse backgrounds, this was quite a feat.

Now, instead of listening to his own committee, Goodale crumpled before the special interests and status quo defenders who view the cement-shoed government monopoly as a dynamic economic player.

Instead of going away, the battle is escalating. Wealth-creating farmers have become bitter because a rearward-looking politician has chosen to ignore his own non-partisan panel. Attitudes have hardened and resolve has strengthened in view of the provincial vote where farmers turned down the government monopoly by roughly two to one. Ralph Klein will probably pull the cord on the Board. The pro-choice groups will now take their legitimate concerns to Goodale's well-educated, middle-class riding. It's made up of people who clearly have the sophistication to understand the nuances of political folly.

On the 49th parallel, the signs have begun to spring up. In Minton, Saskatchewan and in Coutts, Alberta, farmers have erected large billboards that read, "Welcome to Canada, the only country in the free world that jails its farmers for selling their own grain."

Embarrassed government officials, the ones who would throw farmers into the can for selling barley, object to this message. They pleaded with the Saskatchewan government to block this form of expression. The government ordered the "rebels" to take the sign down. Ever enterprising, the farmers will now trumpet Ralph Goodale's chronic indecisiveness on the side of a semi-trailer that can be moved around to thwart government sign censors.

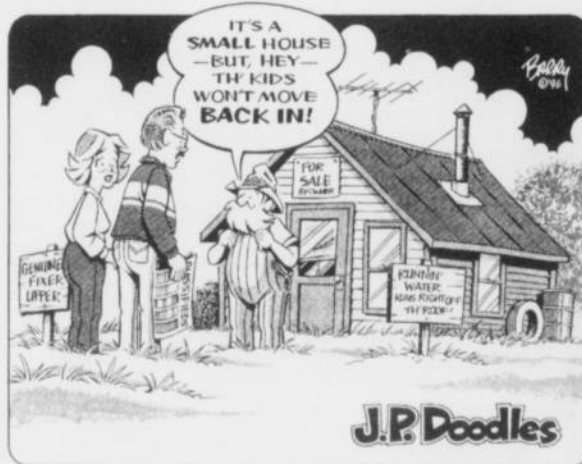

Welcome to Ralph's nightmare. Mr. Goodale could have put it all behind him and moved on by simply listening to his own hand-picked panel of experts. (Indeed a confidential internal poll commissioned by Ag Canada leaked to the Toronto press last week revealed that 55 per cent of prairie farmers support dual marketing for barley.)

As some muse about concentration camps for farmers, signs are that Goodale wants to stick his head in the ground and embrace the past. The political cost for this prairie politician will very likely be much higher than he ever imagined possible.

The goal of The Prairie Centre for choice in government and the economy, is to promote smarter, smaller, more effective government.

Paszkowski responds to Goodale

Dear Editor:

The Honourable Ralph Goodale, Minister of Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada, recently wrote an open letter to newspaper editors. I would like to respond to Mr. Goodale's comments on the western grain marketing debate.

Mr. Goodale states he is unimpressed with the "tone" of some of the representations he is receiving from producers on both sides of the issue. Unfortunately, the federal Minister is responsible for much of the controversy. He reopened the divisive debate by asking for opinions on the Western Grain Marketing Panel's Report.

The Panel, which was hand-picked by Mr. Goodale, was supposed to provide a future direction for Canada's grain marketing system, but Mr. Goodale now leads us to believe the only changes he will make to the Canadian Wheat Board (CWB) are those involving governance and accountability, not the way grain is sold. This focus has resulted in a blatant disregard for the fundamental problems and opportunities facing the agriculture industry.

The Government of Alberta has been saying all along that economics is the main reason significant changes to the CWB are needed. That has been the thrust of all our actions to date. Producers need to be positioned in the future to increase their returns and they need a process that enables them to do this.

The Government of Alberta supports the CWB as a marketing option, but reforms have to be made that give producers choice in grain marketing. One of those choices can and should be the Board. But without changes, the CWB will become outdated and irrelevant to the marketplace. If this occurs, it will result in the demise of the Board.

Mr. Goodale has repeatedly failed to make the concerns of western grain producers his priority. Instead, he chooses to focus his attention on the institution. The Minister should be listening to farmers, now the CWB. The Government of Alberta understands that even a recent poll conducted for the federal government indicates producers want marketing options. We now have polls from Alberta, Saskatchewan and western Canada that all show farmers want change and choice. How long can Mr. Goodale continue to ignore the needs of producers, needs expressed by producers themselves?

It is time for some serious changes to the CWB, and it is time for Mr. Goodale to realize such changes will mean new opportunities and more money in farmers' pockets. Producers are the best judge of what is in their best interest. It is their grain, it should be their choice. The federal government can give them that choice.

Sincerely,
Walter Paszkowski
Minister

Give MLA a chance to respond

Dear Editor:

Many times as Albertans we are quick to complain or to speak negatively about our elected members of the Alberta legislature, yet how many of us have actually spoken to them about a concern and then given them a chance to work on our behalf? Well, we did do just that. We had some concerns about how an agency was handling a matter in which we were involved and we felt we had no power to speak or show concern. We contacted Mr.

Brassard and he listened with great care and concern. He promised to take our concerns and voice them to the appropriate minister. He did just as he said he would do and in a short time we saw some results to our concerns.

We challenge others to instead of being so quick to judge the person in position to allow our member of parliament to do the job he was elected to do; to represent you and me.

"In my opinion"

Dear Editor:

September 18 Review - There is an article saying "Sundre Physicians speak out." In my opinion, these five M.D.'s, there is something wrong with them - saying homosexuality is natural.

I'm glad that they are practising in Sundre.

The committee for the poster and essay contest reported the contest literature had been taken to the Westglen and Didsbury High Schools.

Sympathies are extended to Ladies Betty Fisher in the loss of her father-in-law, and Suzanne Meadows in the loss of her grandfather. Also to Ladies Mary Dunn in the loss of her niece and Jessie Newman in the loss of her cousin.

A special thanks to Lady Kelly Larson for her work in decorating a car for the parade.

Ladies please take note that a special meeting will be held September 25, 1996, at 8 p.m.

BATTLE OF THE GRADES

Following the high school awards presentation, and prior to the first dance of the school year, DHS students had a bit of fun as they took part in a 'battle of the grades' challenge. Decked out in imaginative costumes, each grade vied with the others in point-getting matches that took various forms. The Grade 9s had fun with cross-dressing, racking up a total of 1,507 points. Grades 10 through 12, respectively, adopted "bums", "punks" and "gangster" garb, accumulating 1,149, 2,012, and 2,239 points. The prize for the winning Grade 12 contingent was free entrance to the dance. Staff were apparently asked to dress as "cops" although, with the exception of Deb Sellers, no costumes were spotted. "They were 'undercover cops'," was the 'official' explanation. Bottom right: Saul Garza, in a lovely floor-length ivory evening gown got into the spirit of the event. Top left: Gangsta' Scott Portingale did a turn for the cameras after accepting his certificate from special guest presenter, Ian Taylor.

Around the circle

Southwest Didsbury news

Sympathy of the area is extended to the Westcott area, as a long time resident Soren Rasmussen passed away September 16 in the Calgary Rockyview Hospital, after a short battle with cancer. His daughter Annetta and son Paul of Denmark arrived in time to have a few hours visit with their father. Soren was an old friend of Fred Hansens, having been his partner in the H & R Pontiac Buick Ltd. garage for nearly 40 years. Soren was a quiet fellow, but always enjoyed a visit with friends. He will be sadly missed.

Ruth Powell of Didsbury bought a Triple E manufactured home, from Brent Cooper of Calgary, salesman for Legend Homes and it was moved onto the site (the former Weber farm) S.W. of Didsbury, on Tuesday, September 17. The day was kind of cold and windy, but the drivers manipulated that trailer around quite easily. Brent was on hand to supervise the set up. Good luck Ruth and hope you will enjoy your new home.

Apologies to Alisha Meyer, for omitting her name last week from the list of new kindergarten students.

Cliff and I had a new experience two weeks ago as we were invited to Rick and Dena Wannamakers (on Eckstrand Road) and went for a ride in a golf cart pulled by eight Huskies. It was quite a thrill. We certainly enjoyed it. They have two teams of eight dogs and three puppies. They're just as soft as teddy bears. It takes a bit of energy on behalf of Rick and Dena to get the dogs ready, but then they're off and can go about 20 miles an hour. The girls help and drive the dogs too. Best of luck folks on this new venture.

I had quite a tragedy last week. I was coring some apples for baking and my trusty old potato peeler broke in half. I could hardly believe it. I must have had it 20 years I'm sure. I can hardly cook without that old peeler.

Harvest is upon us, swathing is almost completed and a lot of combining has been done. The rain this week is most welcome for pastures and to get a rest.

A small town is a place where everybody knows what everybody else is doing, but they read the local paper anyhow, to see who's been caught at it!

FIRST CRACK AT THE WHITE STUFF

Terry Fox run organizers Grant and Brenda Hemming, left, explained the course layout to Brian Grant, who was the first to arrive, don gripping (and dripping) runners and gamely set out on the 10 k run under a steady downfall of snow. Terry's Team member Wynne Wollen, Antionetta Overwater and Gerta Cook will be completing the course when the sun returns to melt the snow, but the troop have already raised pledges totalling more than $1,000 between the three of them in 1996. This bests their own combined total of funds raised by approximately $200.

WHEN THEY SAY "RAIN OR SHINE" THEY REALLY MEAN IT Al Johnson was one of seven hardy souls (and the only one on two wheels) to cover the course laid out in Didsbury for the 1996 Terry Fox run. Those who did not run on Sunday may complete the course at a later date when the weather conditions are more favorable. Information on registration, Terry Fox T-Shirt sales and related matters may find out more by contacting the Hemmings after work hours at 335-2390.

Sheryl ROTHERT

So....now what's to eat?

Sheryl Rothert, is a wife, a mother, and an advocate of healthy food choices with a B.Sc. B.Ed. in Home Economics. With more than a decade's worth of teaching experience, Rothert now offers tips and recipes for today's busy family.

Still barbecuing? I hope so! Whatever the weather - it sure is nice to BBQ. (I do hope that you're reading this in warm sunshine though!) I especially like to BBQ for supper, since that's when my husband takes over the chef duties! He has experimented and perfected this wonderful recipe for ribs. It can also be done in the oven, but wait for a cool day, because these ribs cook real slow.

Spicy Lemon Ribs

3 lb. Spareribs 1/2c. lemon juice
Seasoning salt

1. Separate the ribs into individual pieces and place in a big container to use for marinating.
2. Pour the lemon juice over the ribs and sprinkle with seasoning salt.
3. Cover the ribs and place in the fridge overnight.
4. To BBQ, use one burner and keep the temperature as low as possible.
5. Keep the ribs in the marinating juice for cooking. Turn the ribs occasionally as they are cooking.
6. The cooking time should be approximately 2 hours. The ribs should be fairly crispy, but tender, without visible fat remaining. Remember, the secret is cook at low heat for a long time. Don't rush it!

*Serves 4-6

Tip of the week: Ribs and corn-on-the-cob go well together - since your fingers get messy with both of them!

News from the Dragon's Den

Most people aren't thinking of spring '97 yet....but a group of dedicated Didsbury High School parents are!

Commencement is a special event in the hearts and minds of Didsbury High School students, parents, staff and the community. Plans are already underway to make Grad '97 a spectacular event! A great deal of work is required, starting now, to have all parts in place by May.

A parent committee was chosen at "Meet the Teacher" night. Serving will be: Alex McKee, Irene Stewart, Shirley Portingale, Deanne Trewin, Kathy Shields, Hilda-Mari Hansen, Doris Garland and Karen Pieper.

School liaison is provided by Mrs. Williams, Miss Daines and Ms. Turner.

A student committee will be chosen shortly, and many decisions will be made. The banquet caterer will be booked, theme decorations planned, songs chosen and dress and tux colours will be determined - only a few of the many details to be taken care of.

Throughout it all, students are also completing their grade 12 course requirements and busily (and anxiously) planning for a life after Grad '97.

Beat the flu with a shot in the arm

By Marian Brown,
Regional Coordinator
Community Wellness

As winter approaches and we are faced with the pending "flu" season we need to think about protection against this virus. Influenza has a reputation for being a nuisance but is also a potential killer.

Each year in Canada Influenza related illness is responsible for thousands of hospital admissions, job absenteeism's and comes with an enormous price tag.

Influenza or "flu" is a very contagious disease caused by a virus and spread by coughing, sneezing and even talking. The illness consists of fever, chills, sore throat, weakness, loss of appetite and muscle aches and is more severe than the common cold. The real dangers are the complications. Influenza leaves the body's defenses weak and open to other infection particularly in those people with underlying chronic illness.

Anyone can get influenza but some people have a greater risk of becoming seriously ill.

Pneumonia, a very serious lung infection is the most common complication and can be fatal. Natural immunity against the influenza virus does not exist because the structure of the virus varies from year to year. This is why we need to have a new shot each flu season. Antibiotics are also not effective against the flu.

Yearly vaccination is the most effective way of preventing influenza or reducing the severity of illness and saving lives. It will not protect you from the common cold however.

The Influenza vaccine for the 1996-97 season contain these strains: - A/Wuhan/359-95 (H₃N₂) - like strain, an A/Texas/36/91 (H₃N₂) - like strain, and a B/Beijing/184/93 - like strain.

Vaccine is provided free of charge to people over the age of 65 and anyone with chronic medical conditions such as heart, lung, or kidney disease or diabetes. Residents and staff of nursing homes or chronic care facilities are also at risk.

Today's vaccines are extremely safe and most people have little or no reaction. Some may experience a slight soreness at the needle site. Also you cannot get Influenza from the vaccine.

Anyone allergic to eggs or egg products should NOT get the shot because tiny traces of egg protein may be present in the vaccine. Any person under 65 or who does not fit under the "At Risk" category can receive a flu shot at a cost of $5.

For more information please call your local health unit office.

Kids, bring your parents

"Leaf the Yard and Rot" is the theme of the next backyard composting workshop scheduled for Saturday, October 5. The two-hour workshop is free and will be followed by a question and answer period (over donuts and coffee supplied by the Didsbury Environmental Advisory Board). We ask that you please bring your own coffee cup. We look forward to seeing you on Saturday, October 5, 11 a.m. at 16 West Heights Dr. In the event of inclement weather the workshop will be held inside. Dress is informal. Kids, bring your parents.

Preserving our past for the future

The annual meeting of the Didsbury and District Historical Society is slated for a 7 p.m. start on Wednesday, October 23 at the museum. Those interested in getting involved in Didsbury and area's past by becoming part of its future are asked to contact Willard Stauffer, Mel Dick or Marg Weaver. This year's nominating committee members. These individuals will make sure interested parties names make the nomination tabulation for the upcoming year's slate of officers and directors. In addition to nine directors and archivist, nominations are welcome for the following positions with the society: President, Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer.

Shop early for Christmas

On Saturday, September 28, 1996 beginning at 1 p.m. the people of Carstairs, Didsbury and area will have a chance to browse variety tables, and do some early Christmas shopping at the annual Chinook Winds Lodge Fall

Tea and Variety Sale. Admission is $1. There will be craft tables, dolls for sale, raffle and door prizes. As well, the Ladies Auxiliary to the Chinook Winds Lodge will be on hand to sell some homemade baking. This variety and bake sale is the major fundraising activity of the year for both the residents of the lodge and the Ladies Auxiliary to the Chinook Winds Lodge. See you there!

RELIGION

The Way of Life

As we travel around the area and watch progress with the harvest (when the weather allows) we can be reminded of the cycles of the seasons and God's goodness to all of us. We often forget that we live in one of the most prosperous parts of one of the wealthier countries in the world. It is true that there are always things which we would like to see done differently; and in our eyes better, but in general all the leaders in society are mostly trying to improve their area of influence for the common good.

Compare ourselves with many people in other parts of the world; in parts of Africa health care budgets are so small that they may only be one dollar or perhaps a few dollars per year per person. In parts of Latin America housing is both inadequate in terms of modern standards, and in some of the cities many people live on the streets or worse. Some areas of the world are at war or under threat of war, and in others there is famine or starvation.

Against this background the question might be asked, are we thankful enough? It is true that Canada is far from problem free. Many are anxious and concerned about jobs, or lack of them and poverty is a real problem for many people in Canada. But for the majority in this part of the world there is much to be thankful for.

As we prepare for thanksgiving weekend, and think of family gatherings and turkey dinners; then we might ask ourselves whether we are as thankful as we might be; and whether we demonstrate our generosity and sense of community in a way that really reflects our thankfulness to God for His many blessings.

Stepping into better shape

A local step aerobics class is being formed for those interested in toning up. Classes are held Saturday mornings in the Ross Ford gymnasium for one hour beginning at 10:30. All are welcome—beginners, advanced or anything in between—and the steps are supplied. "You can work at your own pace," said instructor Shelley Brolsma. "Instead of going for a coffee and sweets, come and meet your friends and feel better for it." The launch of the class is subject to enough participants registering, so call Alana Hagel at the Town of Didsbury office to register.

Faces

a brief glimpse at the people and events in our community

C.S.A.B seeks input

Community Services Advisory Board RCMP liaison, Cst. Myles Peckham, of the Didsbury detachment, is looking to members of the public for input on keeping the lines of communication open between community members and the peace officers serving them. Peckham is pictured holding two of a number of five inch spikes planted beneath truck tires in an attempted case of vandalism currently under investigation. Sharing ideas on how to reduce such criminal activities is one of the primary mandates of the board, whose members are: John Orman, Willard Swalm, Claude Baril, Gary Bogner and Shaun Aussenhaus. The next regularly scheduled meeting is slated for 3:30 p.m., January 23, 1997, but those with concerns or suggestions on any aspect of community policing are encouraged to contact Peckham or any member of the board prior to that date.

Sparring with apathy

Lise Storgaard is in a Catch-22 situation. Funding for the programs she offers is contingent upon need. While the need is real (and growing) the sparse numbers of those turning out for courses offered by the Family Violence Prevention Services for Mountain View County, could well slash future funding. She knows the need is strong because of the numbers asking for one-on-one counselling, however, the manpower and funding for that type of intensive counselling is simply not available.

The Catch-22 aspect comes in when she arranges for group seminars and the turn out is too low to turn to funding officials with proof of need. Despite requests from local residents and health care officials no one turned out for last Wednesday evening's video presentation on dealing with abusive situations at the public library. Storgaard will be on hand again this Wednesday for the second of the planned four-part series and hopes that those looking for information and help available will attend. "It's not like a therapy session," she explained, saying the seminar was aimed at identifying patterns and developing skills to change a bad situation. "If these services are to be continued to be offered in this community, they have to be supported or they will be lost."

The principal of the thing

On the left we have Martin Sacher, new principal at DHS, and on the right is Ian Taylor who's 'been there and done that'. Taylor was a special guest at last Friday's awards presentation ceremonies for Grades 9 through 11.

At your service

Canadian Western Natural Gas agency serviceman Dave Rogers (centre) repaired a cut line last week. Town crews repairing a water shut-off clipped the line while replacing a water service shut-off connection. Town crews quickly barricaded the street while the line was repaired without further incident.

Global market focus

By Delin Sheehan-Millang,
Business Development
Specialist -
Olds

Imagine making ten times the cost of training courses in your first new sale...moving your product into new markets in Mexico, Japan or Europe...gathering "market intelligence" by contacting international trade experts in Europe and Asia.

Farmers are doing all that and more, once they've adopted a "market focus" instead of a "production focus." Increasingly, farmers are discovering that their future success lies in the finding and responding to new markets by finding out what the customer wants or needs, then providing that product to them. Global Market Focus for Farm Profits equips farmers and other ag entrepreneurs with the skills to achieve that.

Adopting a market focus means changing the way, you look at a market, your own farm, and the role you play on it. Historically, farmers have sold what they produced, adopting a "market focus" means producing and selling what the market wants.

Increasingly, what customer's want is high-quality value-added food and other agricultural products. Alberta farmers are responding to those needs by adding more value right at the farm, and doing more of the marketing themselves. That way, increased profit's stay in Alberta, and especially within the family farm.

Global Market Focus for Farm Profits is a ten-session workshop that equips farmers and ag entrepreneurs to develop a market focus. Participants will learn to identify where a new potential agricultural market exists and why; how to analyse that market for its needs; and determine how to fill those needs with farm products. Those skills will allow them to focus on long-term market opportunities and thus avoid the uncertainties of a fluctuating market.

Global Market participants work on a project of their choice to bring a product from field to market. A unique feature of this workshop is contact with international trade experts and buyers from Japan, South Korea, Mexico and in various other parts of the world through teleconference sessions. Concrete, real examples are used for class discussion and participants will direct the focus of the course.

Rural Development Specialists are partnering with Mike Leslie of Nakodo Consulting, Inc. of Calgary. Mr. Leslie specialized in market development with agri-food business. His experience comes from extensive work in Japan and other countries in the Pacific Rim, as well as in North America.

The Olds location of Global Market Focus begins November 12. Call your Rural Development Specialist-Business for more information and to register.

Local news from Alberta Agriculture office in Olds, 5030 - 50 St., 556-4220 - Developing Your Food Business, October 22, 1996, call for more information; Farm Operations Cost Guide available.

PLOUGHING IN COMMUNICATIONS PIPELINE

Trucks and equipment bearing 'Ledcor' door insignias are in town to plough in fibre-optics pipelines along the railway tracks. The lines constitute a communications system that will run from Calgary to Edmonton upon completion.

300 - 400 lb. average .75 - .90
per lb.

Hogs reach market peak

After consistently outperforming expectations this summer, the slaughter hog market took a downward turn in August, with prices moving below the $2 per kg mark. Hog prices are expected to continue eroding as marketings increase seasonally. Prices are likely to remain relatively attractive and well above year-ago levels, due to a strong U.S. market and a favorable exchange rate. While the peak futures prices are probably over, forward pricing for the December-January period, in particular, is still recommended. For producers who have already wisely pre-priced a portion of their production for the coming year, it may be time to wait out the market before pricing any more of expected 1996-97 production.

400 - 500 lb. average .88 - .94

840 - OBITUARY

Rasmussen - Soren Anker Rasmussen born April 21, 1926 in Odder, Denmark passed away suddenly at the Rockyview Hospital in Calgary on September 16, 1996. Survivors in Denmark include his wife Esther, daughter Anette, son Poul (Lene), sister Else (Niels), brother Jens (Anne-Helene) and several nieces and nephews. He was predeceased by his parents Antoni and Agnete Rasmussen and one sister Inger. Soren arrived in Canada in 1953, worked in Camrose, Wetaskiwin and Drayton Valley before coming to Didsbury where he and Fred Hansen established various automotive dealerships and services. They eventually opened H. & R. Pontiac Buick Ltd. at Olds in which he was actively employed until his passing. Soren will be sadly missed by his family, many friends, customers and associates. In lieu of flowers donations may be made in his memory to the charity of your choice. Cremation arrangements by Heritage Family Services, Calgary. 24-ltc

Jail for farmers, while criminals go free

Reform Deputy Justice Critic Myron Thompson says he was dismayed by the hypocrisy displayed by the Canadian court system last week.

"Why is it that the heavy hand of the law always punishes law-abiding citizens who are fighting for the principle of freedom, while violent criminals who break in and destroy the sanctity of our homes receive a mere slap on the wrist?" asked Thompson.

Darren Watson of Saskatoon pleaded guilty September 11 to breaking into a Leask-area farm in April and stealing two trucks. During the burglary, three dogs

LET THE BEST WORK FOR YOU!!

QUITESPORTING

A number of new displays are ready for viewing at the museum, including a new sports exhibit. Didsbury and District Museum board members and Denise Stevens (above) remind townsfolk that the annual meeting is scheduled for October 23 and invite all interested individuals to attend.

A global perspective

By Elaine Wilson

Exposure to the world wide market place is the result and Denise Taylor is providing the means through a poll of Didsbury businesses currently under way by the Town of Didsbury.

A three page business profile questionnaire is being delivered to businesses in town by Taylor, who will be compiling and inputting data received around the end of November.

Those interested in widening their market base may post information on import/export strategies. Those seeking agents or distributors may note related details, and those who feel they have something distinctive to offer may spell out specialties on the form.

Taylor said response to a similar program administered by the Olds Chamber of Commerce garnered a positive response and a gratifying rate of response by local businesses.

The key to the project is that businesses are free to turn in only the information they feel comfortable in releasing.

From a spot on the Didsbury www home page, information will also be added to a Central Alberta business data base. Inclusion in the program means businesses need not have a computer to facilitate net exposure.

The information will provide data for compiling statistics on business trends and points of interest. Promotion of Didsbury in industry, tourism and service initiatives comprise some of the system's objectives. Those interested in relocating to Didsbury will also find the package useful, as a composite profile emerges.

Taylor looks forward to connecting with all Didsbury business owners.

"Anyone who has questions about any aspect of this can contact me through the town office, [at 335-3391]" Taylor said.

Marked fuel rules

Submitted by Cst. C.D. Lewis

Quite often, RCMP members are asked about the use of marked fuel in conjunction with farm plates and operating a business.

A bale wagon will also qualify in custom farming if:

- 1) The farmer has a farm fuel number
- 2) The bale wagon is permanently fixed to the truck
- 3) The bale wagon is equipped with a self loading device to load individual bales from the farmers field only not from the stack.

In turn we contacted Alberta Agriculture and Rural Development in Edmonton for further information on this topic.

Reports from Agriculture, Food and Rural Development advise under the Fuel Tax Act, the regulation allows the use of marked fuel in a machine of farm husbandry; the clause was extended to trucks used to spread manure by custom corral cleaners and to specialized, self-loading bale-hauling trucks.

Denise Taylor is the contact person for those with questions about a business profile questionnaire being presented to Didsbury business owners.

Western Sky Tack expands

Bigger, better and still open for business despite Hwy 2A road work

The construction phase on the newly expanded interior of the Western Sky Tack store is almost completed - and horse show hints and etiquette, or you can select from a well-stocked rack of paperback books on pretty much any horse-related topic you can think of.

Elaine, who with her husband, Terry, and children (Rheanna, 6, and Mitchell, 4), are long-time horse people with experience in many aspects of the industry.

An expanded line of Crossfire ropes handled by local pro roper, Joe Lucas, graces the wall by the notice board which is a focal point in the store. Customers are invited to post information on horses, horse trailers, etc., on the store bulletin board. can be found or ordered through Western Sky Tack. English and dressage materials, and other items not regularly found on the shelves can be purchased through special orders.

The warmth and friendliness Elaine shares with her customers is reflected in the repeat business and the number of miles logged by faithful customers who return for the selection and the personalized service. Many who began as customers are now friends.

Elaine helped with a secret gift exchange by keeping silent. A couple had ordered the same horse blankets for each other at different times. So, secretly, Elaine found out through each, the proper sizes and ordered them in.

"The people picked up their presents within an hour of each other on Christmas Eve," Elaine said.

"When they opened up their Christmas presents for each other under the Christmas tree, they found out they'd both order identical presents for each other," Welland said with a smile, "Imagine what their Christmas morning was like."

The store is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

"Our motto is 'If you need it, and you don't see it, ask and we'll try and get it,'" Elaine said.

"If it's busy, I'll still try to get around and make sure everyone is finding what they're looking for."

Didsbury Review advertising feature the show room is stocked to the rafters with western gear and supplies for shoppers seeking the finest at the fairest price.

Meanwhile, construction on Highway 2A has restricted access to "local traffic only", but Elaine Welland wants customers to be aware that her store is still open and that customers may still travel the one quarter mile south of Carstairs to the store.

"Please be careful coming down the road, and don't wash your car before you come," she said with a smile.

Beyond the diversity and quality, Welland invites customers to take note of the price tag.

Western Sky Tack carries ropes and bridles, boots, Wrangler and Rockie jeans, hats and gloves, jewellery and handbags, books and ornaments - and the list goes on: horse hygiene products; lams brand and feed mill dog food; oil skin jackets; salt, minerals, and related equine supplies and supplements; horse blankets, saddles and a line of adult and children's western wear.

Nestled among displays that run floor to ceiling in the cozy well-lit store are a number of eye-catching specialty items. Here you can rent videos on such subjects as barrel racing and tin board.

"It's well-read, too," Elaine said.

Consignments are accepted on saddles that are clean and in a good state of repair. And speaking of repair, leather work and repair items may be dropped off at Western Sky. Specialty items such as custom prepared horse ornaments and accessories to match your own horse from a photo are also available through the shop.

Basically, anything with a western motif relating to horses

"Figures" taken out of figure skating

By Dena Wannamaker

You won't be seeing figure skaters tracing circles anymore. In May, the Canadian Figure Skating Association voted to abolish figures from its program. A new program called "Skating Skills" has been instituted to fill the need for basic training in edge control, speed and agility.

There is mixed feelings in the skating world about the age-old discipline of figures. Many skaters found them boring and time consuming and will likely welcome the new "skating skills" program. However, some coaches feel the discipline and edge control that figures provided will be missed.

The coaches of the Didsbury Figure Skating Club are looking forward to providing an exciting Skating Skills program for their CFSA skaters this season.

The Club will be offering Learn-to-skate, Prehockey, Canskate, Canfigure, Adult Precision and CFSA programs. Lessons will begin October 21.

If you missed the registration nights, please call: Linda Pothier 335-9931, Cindy Collinge 335-4110.

Grizzlys come up short on defence

By Robert Magee

Well, it's been a long five months but it's finally here. The 1996-97 Alberta Junior Hockey League season is under way and the Olds Grizzlys have a somewhat new look this year. The new coaching staff has Frank Richardson as Head Coach, Dean Hansen and Lynn McDonald as Assistant Coaches, Peter Bertoia as Assistant Coach and Trainer, and Jim Waiting as Goalie Coach.

The Grizzlys got off to a shaky start this season, opening up with a 1-3 record. In their season opener they fell 5-4 to the Bow Valley Eagles. Richard Latimer, Scott Grant, and Jim Lawrence each had a goal and an assist. Greg Lawrence had the other Grizzlys goal, which came on a power play. Andrew Houthuys took the loss despite stopping 14 shots alone in the first period. The Grizzlys outshot their opponents 41-32.

On September 17, the black and gold travelled to Sherwood Park to take on the Crusaders. David Wiens had a remarkable game for the Grizzlys as he popped two goals in, and added an assist. It wasn't enough, however, as Olds lost 6-4. Kevin Seidel also had a couple of power play goals, while both Calvin Crowe and Clayton Weigum chipped in with two assists.

The Grizz home opener last Friday night against the Bonnyville Pontiacs, was not pretty. Again they lost 6-4, and again it was a lack of defensive play that caused it. Olds out shot Bonnyville 38-18. That means they were stoned by the Pontiacs goaltender all game long, while being scored on six times on only 18 shots.

However, the Grizzlys pushed that game out of their minds and focussed on the following night's match-up against the Lloydminster Blazers.

Olds finally took revenge, beating up on the Blazer goalies by scoring seven times en route to a 7-5 victory. Chet Musgrove scored a couple, while Grant, Horacek, Lawrence, Venaas, and Barga each added a single goal. Goalie Andrew Houthuys picked up the first win of the season for the Grizz.

On Tuesday night (September 24) the unbeaten Calgary Canucks will be in town for what I'm sure will be an exciting contest. The game time starts at 7:30 p.m., so come and help cheer on your team to victory.

Muriel Hoeft brings home national gold

By Elaine Wilson

When Muriel Hoeft steps up to the tee she's very focused; the gold medal she brought home from the recent Canada Senior Games in Regina is proof of that.

While the weather was warm, the wind was strong.

"The wind gusted up to 60 or 70 km an hour," Muriel said, adding there were also a lot of sand traps, something she doesn't have to contend with on her home course here in Didsbury.

"I thought, even though it was windy, she'll do well because she hits a straight ball," said her husband Ernie. "And the wind was the same for everybody, so it becomes equal."

Hoeft's play on a windy Regina course was exemplary.

"She doesn't like to brag," Ernie said. "But she beat everybody in her age group. There were only three men with better scores in the whole meet- and they didn't beat her by much."

Alberta was the high point winner at the Senior Games, and Hoeft was a contributing factor. She's been golfing for 20 years now, and her game continues to improve. While she's won her fair share of tournaments, this was a high point for Hoeft, who bested the only lady to beat her in the provincial preliminaries in St. Paul.

"I went there hoping to do well," Muriel said. "The wind played havoc, but I persevered."

Ernie was confident she'd earned the gold when she came off the course, with several golfers still completing their games.

"I looked at the postings scored and I thought 'She's got it made.' I congratulated her but of course she said, 'It's not over yet', but she won."

"She said she never got so many hugs- from people she didn't even know," Ernie said with a smile. "She plays to win. When she goes out golfing here [on the Didsbury course] with Charlie Topping, Al McCoy says 'Charlie's going out to get another lesson.'"

Muriel Hoeft, who "barely scrapes 5 feet", according to her husband Ernie, stood tall during medal presentations at the Canada Seniors Games in Regina.

ACAC Basketball comes to Didsbury

Didsbury will be the site of an Alberta Colleges Athletic Conference exhibition game between the Mount Royal Cougars and Red Deer College Queens women's basketball teams. The game will be played at Westglen School on Monday, October 7 at 7 p.m.

The Dragons Booster Club and basketball program are hosting the game in conjunction with the ACAC teams wishing to promote their game in the rural areas of Alberta. Many of the players in the ACAC League are graduates of rural high school programs throughout the province.

For Cougars head coach Avery Harrison, it's a bit of a homecoming, a Carstairs native who has many memories of Didsbury teams. "We had a great rivalry", recalls Harrison and we could pack both gyms any night we played each other. Both teams had some great players, Carstairs had Scott Cameron, Kurt Osterman, Mark Loewan, Bob Church and Tony Backs, while Didsbury countered with Doug and Terry Luft, Doug Pratt, Chris Jepson and Mike Slipp.....personally it's great to be coming back. You should never forget where you come from, it's more than just a game..."

Results of the 1996 Canadian Classic Sheepdog Trials

Two heats ran on Saturday all day and Sunday morning. Ten finalists were chosen to run. This was the final outcome out of a possible score of 150. The judge was Murray Young of Olds.

Tumbling into fall

The Didsbury Gymnastics Club is set to commence its third year of classes. The gymnasts will be rolling, tumbling and vaulting together beginning Monday, September 30, 1996 at 5 p.m. at the Ross Ford gym.

The 1996-97 season brings with it a number of changes. Lenore Fox comes to us as Head Coach and has recruited a fellow gymnast, Carla Pierce, who both hail from the Airdrie Gym Club. Between them, Lenore and Carla have many years experience coaching gymnasts at any age level. The gymnastic club is also pleased to announce that it will be enjoying some much-needed new equipment this year thanks to a grant from the Alberta Sport Recreation Parks and Wildlife Foundation.

Anyone interested in joining the gymnastic club is invited to come and see us at the Ross Ford gym on Monday, September 30, 1996. Hope to see you there.

Parsons skating with Grizzlys

By Barry Williams

A product of the Cremona Minor Hockey Association, Ross Parsons has decided to finish his junior hockey career at home, with the Olds Grizzlys of the Alberta Junior Hockey League.

A draft pick of the Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, Parsons has spent the past three years guarding the blueline for the Regina Pats, of the Western Hockey League. But due to uncontrollable circumstances, Parsons now calls the Olds Grizzlys his team of choice. And the Grizzlys' coaching staff is elated Parsons made the decision to return home to conclude an already impressive Junior hockey career.

There is no doubt Parsons will definitely make an outstanding addition to the Grizzlys' blueline core and become a game to game contributor on the ice, but his presence will be an asset to the rebuilding Grizzlys.

"I realize I will be making a contribution towards the team defensively and offensively, but I feel my best asset will be made by being a leader for the younger players on this squad," Parsons said.

The road towards a professional hockey career through the ranks of junior hockey can at times be filled with many bumps of indecision and towards the end be faced with the unbearable stop sign, but Parsons has smoothed those bumps and sped past the stop sign in coming to play with the Grizzlys.

"At first I was quite disappointed in knowing my playing days in the Western Hockey League were numbered. But now I have made the decision to play with the Grizzlys and I am quite happy about it," mentioned Parsons.

According to Parsons, play in the Western Hockey League can be quite demanding, but "It is a great league to play in and I feel fortunate I had the opportunity. It was certainly fun and I learned a lot about hockey."

According to the Grizzlys newest blueliner, the Western Hockey League is an excellent league for players who are trying to crack the rosters of the National Hockey League Teams.

Except for the physical aspect of play and the players being somewhat smaller in the Alberta Junior Hockey League, the two junior hockey leagues are comparable indicated Parsons. Playing junior hockey within the County of Mountain View is not unfamiliar with Parsons as he spent one season with the Carstairs Colts of the Heritage Junior Hockey League before going onto greater opportunities in the Western Hockey League.

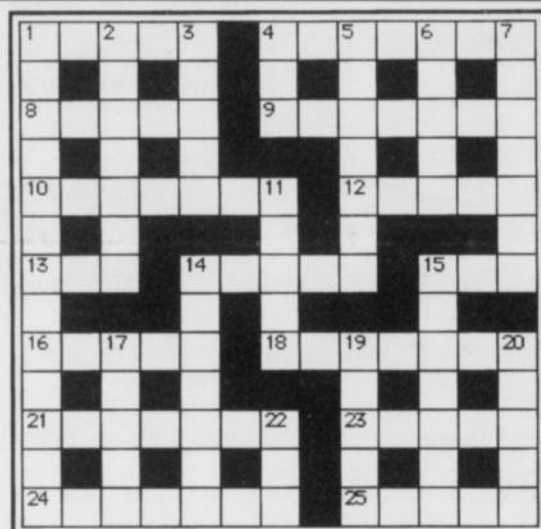

Although Parsons was released this summer by the Montreal Canadiens, his attitude towards the game remains undaunted and an excellent season with the Grizzlys could issue another look from professional hockey teams. Welcome home Ross!

Fall of the puck

Month of September, surfing time,
Nothing to edit, it's all clear,
One hundred per cent compatible,
Hockey training camp is here.

The focal point is: interface
Good, user friendly
things to think,
Like black dots known
as hockey pucks,
Causing red lights to flash and blink.

Target goodbye to summertime,
Hello Flames, Oilers, Habs and Leafs,
Low end is last year memory banks,
High end: receiving new beliefs.

Technically speaking, hockey fans,
May or may not be function wise,
But bring a brand new training camp,
And then see where fan scanning lies.

Month of September on the screen,
Primary focus goes like this,
Look out cause hockey's comin' through,
Ice mail, no fan would ever miss.

Colts tamed in training camp

By Barry Williams

It appears optimism is at an all time high as the Carstairs Colts of the Heritage Junior Hockey League are being tamed in training camp being held at the Olds Sports Complex until the end of September.

Heading into the new season, the Colts' coaching ranks have reached stability as the team has come to terms with Bill Dallas and Greg Lockert serving as assistant coaches for head coach Dave Cuming.

Dallas is a long-time associate with the Colts, while Lockert, general manager of the Carstairs Community Golf Club is entering his initial year as a coach. "I have been searching for a coaching position for the past five years. I am excited and looking forward to working with the Colts," Lockert said.

In training camp, approximately 25 players, mostly from the Carstairs, Didsbury, Olds and Crossfield areas are trying to crack the roster. Of these, about twelve players are veterans and Cuming is hopeful other players will return when other junior and college camps are completed.

Upon the completion of training camp, the Colts will embark with a series of exhibition games before opening the regular season with a game against the Cochrane Generals in Cochrane on October 18. The first scheduled game in the friendly confines of the Carstairs Arena is slated for Saturday, October 19 at 7:30 p.m. with the Cochrane Generals supplying the opposition.

Those interested in assisting the Colts in any capacity can contact Colts' president Rick Blair, General Manager Gerry Willey or any executive member.

HARDY SOULS

A little rain didn't stop this group of Grade 11 students from a game of football last week at DHS. In fact, the teams seemed to be quite enjoying the match.

Cutting action coming to Red Deer

The eyes of the equine world will be focused on Red Deer October 3 to 6 as Westerner Park in Red Deer plays host to reiners, cutters, working cow horses and barrel racers. The four days of competition at the Canadian Supreme will feature the best in the west!

Four days of cutting action will take place in the Stockmans Pavilion while the reiners will compete in the Agricentre on Saturday and Sunday. The featured performance on Saturday evening will spotlight the Great West Hummer/CCHA Open Derby Finals, The Legends of the Fall Working Cow Horse Class and FreeStyle Reining. This variety of events is sure to offer the spectators action packed entertainment.

During the breaks in action, spectators will want to stroll through the expanded western trade fair exhibits featuring works of artists, silversmiths and saddlemakers and suppliers of western tack, clothing, trucks and trailers.

This show annually attracts competitors from across Western Canada and the Northwestern United States who compete for the prestige of being named champion as well as for one of the richest purses offered in Canada.

Area players impressive

By Barry Williams

With six cuts left on the roster four area players have impressed the coaching staff and rookie head coach Frank Richardson has a tough task at naming his final line-up. Carstairs minor hockey product Jeremy Yousph along with Water Valley's Jared Croft are still vying for a position as is Sundre's Kevin Seidel. From the East country, Brent Smyth of Three Hills is the only player from the area left on the roster.

The strength and popularity of the Grizzlies attracting local talent continues to be strong as 15 area players played in the Main Camp Intersquad Game held on September 2. Next weekend on September 28 and 29, the Grizzlies head north on a road trip where they are scheduled to play in Lloydminster and Bonnyville. To begin the month of October the Grizzlies play host to Bow Valley on Tuesday, October 1 with game time set for 7:30 p.m.

There is always a great time coupled with excellent hockey at an Olds Grizzlies home game.
